

Otto Bock HealthCare Announces Employee Promotion in Technical Orthopedics Area

Minneapolis, MN – Otto Bock HealthCare recently promoted Angi Danner, a current employee, to Regional Sales Manager for Technical Orthopedics.

“Angi has a proven track record of success and has demonstrated excellent organizational and communication skills,” said Brad Ruhl, CEO and President of Otto Bock U.S. HealthCare. “Her education and work experience have also created a strong foundation for her new role.”

Danner’s background includes a degree in Business Administration from Morehead State University and an MBA from Capital University in Columbus, OH. In addition to her success with Otto Bock, her work experience includes training and mentoring new sales representatives for AstraZeneca and extensive experience in the financial sector working as a senior accountant.

“I really enjoy being a part of an industry that makes an impact on patients’ lives every day,” said Danner. “I am excited for this new opportunity and look forward to developing new skills of my own as well as those of the representatives I will be working with in the Western region.”
